

FACILITATING BEST PRACTICE IN DEFENCE PROCUREMENT

CAPABILITY, CAPACITY, CONSULTANCY

AACE provides high quality technical and logistic resources required to deliver the services to satisfy the clients' needs:

Capability

Providing the requisite skills and specialist capabilities to enable clients' to meet objectives and complete tasks that require either a particular specialist function or skill set.

Capacity

There are occasions where the client simply does not have the capacity to complete to time all the activities that are required. Here the function of AACE is to support the client with additional targeted capacity that will enable objectives to be achieved and milestones to be met.

Consultancy

Many programmes need a degree of analysis, management and strategic oversight that is best provided by an agency independent of the programme. This is consultancy in its truest form and is an area in which AACE can provide a highly qualified and professional service.

The Service

AACE has the capability of providing support to clients' in the following areas:

- All phases of the concept, acquisition, development, manufacture, in-service and disposal (CADMID) cycle.
- Aircraft safety and airworthiness issues within the military, and increasingly civil, regulatory environment.
- The development and management of Integrated Operational Support (IOS) and activities within Integrated Logistics Support (ILS).
- Undertaking studies and analytical tasks within all aspects of project support.
